GMBX, a provider of data center services, plans to invest $5 million in the second data center in Myanmar.

Golden Myanmar Business Exchange (GMBX), a provider of data center services, is looking at setting up a new facility at an investment of about $5 million.

GMBX is a joint venture between Yangon-based Golden TMH Telecom Co Ltd (GTMH) and Golden 11 Investment International.

The new data center – which could come up in Mandalay or Nay Pyi Taw – would be set up very soon, said Derek Hellmons, chief executive officer of GMBX.

GMBX, that focuses on delivering wholesale infrastructure as a service, has already invested about $6.2 million for the tier III data center in East Dagon. The data centre, with an initial capacity of 100 racks, has room to expand up to about 400 racks, according to Kyaw Naing, chief technical officer of GTMH.

GMBX started work in 2016 and has already been providing trial services to customers including Wave Money, a TV station for hosting movies and disaster recovery, French Chamber of Commerce and Ongo, a digital payments service. The Yangon Bus Service’ data is also at GMBX.
